

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A certificate method and system for issuing a certificate and verification thereof. The method of issuing includes utilization of a computer in which individual information of a certificate issuance requester is inputted, writing the individual information is written on electronic data of a board by using characters, and painting out a background portion of the individual information written with the characters, by using a plurality of colors according to a first predetermined rule. Further, the background portion of the individual information written with the characters is re-painted, according to a second predetermined rule by using information that differs from certificate to certificate, a certificate identification number and the information that differs from certificate to certificate is stored, the certificate identification number into is entered the electronic data of the board, and printing is effected of the electronic data as a certificate.